

Gary was excellent. His no nonsense common sense approach to relationships both in and out of the work environment really made you think and assess how you approach day to day interactions.