

I have students that have started with self study and even other courses and find my structured approach very beneficial. The class discussions and explanation of the PMI methodology help greatly in students understanding the type and style of questions they will encounter on the exam. Self study usually has no set time frame so staying focused is difficult and students don't know if they are studying the right material and using the best PMP study guides until they take the exam.