This is excellent training course for project managers and other qualified people who desire to get advanced knowledge of Project Management.

Project Management

Many Project people have been thrust into their responsibility without time or concern for adequate training needed to "do their job". The challenge is knowledge is gained through experience and gaining experience takes time - which most projects don't have enough of. THE RESULT is people supporting projects without a strong base of project management knowledge they desire to have. THE SOLUTION is Doulos PM Training's NEW Project Management Intermediate/ Advanced Course to help project professionals "Put it all together". This will prove valuable BOTH to the individual and the company they work for.

Course Overview:

An Advanced Project Management course using Robert Wysocki textbook "Effective Project Management". This is intended to give PM's and project personnel formal training to understand the full scope of Project Management, the System Life Cycle and the 'Whole Picture' of Project management. This course involves extensive interaction of students in a group setting evaluating case studies. A study of advanced project management concepts. This course is designed for all levels from intermediate to advanced level Project Management professionals as well as key stakeholders. The course will discuss in detail all aspects of Project Management from project selection to project close-out. The course focuses on the 'nuts and bolts' of project management with substantial interaction between students using Incident discussions and Case studies of relevant Project Management situations. It is not intended to prepare the attendee for the PMP Certification exam. This course is taught under a reciprocal agreement between Doulos PM Training and the University of Texas at Arlington. This course awards 32 PDUs for any PMP.

Who should attend:

- Project managers at all levels of their career
- Project Managers who have not been exposed to the total spectrum of Project Management.
- System analysts, Business Analysts, Team Leads, Senior Developers, Project Coordinators and Expeditors involved in Projects today or planning to go into Project Management
- Managers, all levels of management and key stakeholders within your organization who want to get an accurate perspective of what their IT and Project people work with on a daily basis
